Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Spoils Taken From the Tower of London: Without Siege, Violence, Bloodshed, Conquest, or Loss to the Owners, in a Letter to a Friend When we are fixed on the high tower the world appears as the drop of a bucket, or the small dust of a balance, lighter than vanity and less than nothing. You know the promise is that the saint shall dwell on high - that his place of defence shall be the munition of rocks - that bread shall be given him and his water shall be sure - that he shall see the King in his beauty, and behold the land that is very far off. The royal armory is within a bowshot of your person, wherein there hang a thousand bucklers, all shields of mighty men, Cant. iv.4. Many a good soldier of Jesus Christ, when engaged in the fight of faith, has felt his need of the helmet of hope, - the breast-plate of righteousness, - the shield of help, - the shield of faith, - the girdle of truth, - and the sword of the Spirit, who never could say, as you can, that they lived all the year round close to and in full view of the royal armory. Nor have you any thing to fear from the borse armory. The horses, their armour, their formidable riders, and their weapons of war, strike no terror; they are all fixed, and confined in perpetual imprisonment - there is no apprehension of any danger from them; all the terror they have caused in the land of the living is now over.
