Pub Date: October 2012 Pages: 425 Language: English in Publisher: East China University of Science and Technology Publishing House from the failure to improve the design. manufacturing and construction (English Edition) 2012 Year of the structural integrity of the International Society for Fracture Mechanics The will of essays. the book is included in the latest papers nearly 100. The papers are the mechanical structure of the field. the world's top engineering research scientist at the latest research results. and directions for future research in the field guide. From failure to better design. manufacturing and construction (English) suitable for the high level of the library has a collection of the Library of Science and Technology. also suitable for graduate students and researchers of the engineering research in the field of learning. communication. reference. reference purposes . Contents: Preface Anomalies of monoscale notion of failure in contrast to multiscale character of failure for physical processes Revisions to the R5 and R6 structural integrity assessment procedures A stochastic and local theory of fatigue for aging pressure vessels and piping Predicting crack initiation and propagation in pressurized aircraft structures Quantitative damage assessment using guided ultrasonic waves signals Comparison of ductile failure predictions with experimental data of multiple cracked plates and pipes From structure integrity to system integrity resilience Structural integrity assessment of welds using neutron diffraction method A structural integrity assessment of an elbow subjected to internal pressure. system moments and operating at high temperature Aging management of nuclear power plants in Korea Local fracture properties and dissimilar weld integrity in nuclear power systems Neutron diffraction and numerical simulation to study the cutting induced relaxation of weld residual stress Finite element analysis of HAZ effects on limit loads for mismatched welded joints Mismatch effect on safety assessment...
