Excerpt: . . . some whereof are yet living, that King C I. commanded (my Father, says the his son) the bishop to send him the whole account in writing, which he did; but it was lost when papers of greatest Concernment and privatest correspondence could not escape. The Boy was at length Recovered, so as to be no more molested; and bound apprentice to a haberdasher, and, I believe, still alive. Wares Bithops, p. 56, ed. 1705. A similar atory is told of the Earl of Orrerys buller, who is said to have been persecuted in his lordships ball room by these imaginary beings. There were among the company some high dignitaries of the established church, and among the guests the celebrated Valentine Greatrakes, who had obtained great notoriety in consequence of the miraculous cures which he was said to be able to perform by the imposition...
